Drink driver admits guilt

A DRUNK driver tearfully pleaded guilty to dangerous driving after crashing into a restaurant with her five-year-old daughter in the front seat.

Margarita Hollaway, 50, of Bury Street, Newport Pagnell, crashed her Mini into The East House in Silver Street at about 10.10pm on June 5.

Earlier that evening, she was involved in a minor collision at a set of traffic lights, and was spotted by witnesses driving 'erratically' and swerving in and out of traffic.

Tristan Driscoll, prosecuting, said officers found Hollaway in an emotional state, slurring her words and they could smell alcohol on her breath.

The court was told that Hollaway refused to provide a sample to police, and nobody was injured in the crash.

Stephanie Wainwright, defending, said: "It is safe to say Margarita is completely distraught by what happened on that night."

Hollaway pleaded guilty to one count of driving a motor vehicle dangerously, one count of failure to provide a specimen for analysis, and one count of being drunk in charge of a child under seven at Milton Keynes Magistrates' Court yesterday.

City magistrates concluded sentencing would be carried out by a crown court judge due to the severity of the offence.

Speaking to Hollaway, Leroy Babalola, chair magistrate, said: "I'm sure you appreciate the gravity of the offence."

"We don't feel our sentencing powers are enough for the dangerous driving."

Mr Babalola also imposed a driving ban on Hollaway until she receives her sentence.

A date for the sentencing is to be confirmed.

Further tests after carnival-goer dies

BY SCOTT KIRK

scott.kirk@onemk.co.uk

FURTHER tests will be carried out on the body of a man who died after the Electric Daisy Carnival gig at the National Bowl.

Police were called to the venue at 1.23am on Sunday after reports that a man in his twenties, who it is believed had attended the gig, had fallen ill.

The ambulance service was called to the scene but sadly the man was later pronounced dead.

He was named on Monday as Liam McEwan, 23, from Northampton.

Thames Valley Police and Milton Keynes Coroners say his death is not being treated as suspicious.

A post-mortem examination took place yesterday but further tests will now take place to try to determine the cause of death.

The results of those tests will not be known until the end of this week or early next week.

More than 50,000 people attended the carnival on Saturday.

The line-up included big names in the world of electric dance, with Avicii, Axwell & Ingrosso, Eric Prydz, Martin Garrix, Martin Solveig, Oliver Heldens, Robin Schulz on stage.

Taking centre stage at the kinetic-FIELD and standing a massive 30 metres tall by 70 metres wide, the fully immersive Crystal Village spectacle towered over revellers during its first EDC UK showcase on Saturday.

Throughout the day at the circuit-GROUNDS, festival goers saw DJ

sets from some of the biggest names in the world.

"We thank all of our headliners and performing artists for joining us in celebrating the incredible culture of dance music," said Pasquale Rotella, founder and CEO of Insomniac, which joined forces with Festival Republic to organise the event.

OneMK asked for a comment from both organisations on Mr McEwan's death but we had not received a reply at the time of going to print. Read updates at onemk.co.uk

Free parking permit for all electric vehicles

TRANSPORT Minister Andrew Jones MP visited Central Milton Keynes on Thursday to officially launch the new free Green Parking Permit scheme for electric vehicles.

Milton Keynes Council is offering free parking permits for purple spaces in a bid to encourage more people to buy the emission free vehicles.

Mr Jones said: "This is what the future looks like and it looks great."

When OneMK asked why purple spaces were chosen for the permits instead of red, Brian Matthews, head of transport innovation at Milton Keynes Council, said: "Really the red bays are for turnover to support businesses and what we are starting to have is more electric cars parking here but not charging so free parking in purple bays frees up spaces for those who do want to charge."

The scheme has been introduced after the council received £9million funding to reduce harmful emissions in the city.

Robots to supply meals on wheels

BY EMMA BOWDEN

editor@onemk.co.uk

ROBOTS could soon be delivering takeaways to residents.

Just Eat - the online food order and delivery service - partnered with Starship Technologies in a ground-breaking trial which saw the self-driving robots tested in Milton Keynes.

The insulated robots travel at four miles per hour and drive alone while being monitored by human operators in control centres, who are able to step in and take over at any time.

Fernando Fanton, chief product and technology officer at Just Eat, said: "This is another example of how we're pushing boundaries to provide customers and restaurant partners with more choice and flexibility.

"We've always been committed to offering new ways to order and pay for food, and now we're right at the heart of a new way of delivering which is as exciting for us as it will be for those who find a robot on their doorstep."

Fitted with nine cameras recording its surroundings, a two-way audio system and alarms if picked up or stolen, the robots have been introduced in European and American cities since the end of last year.

The food compartment is sealed in transit, and on arrival the app holder is supplied with a secure access code to open the robot and collect their meal.

They have already driven close to 5,000 miles and met more than 400,000 people without a single accident.

Although Just Eat has yet to confirm an arrival date, all the signs suggest your Chinese takeaway may be brought to you by a robot in the near future.

Student's shock at toilet camera

BY JESSICA DUNCAN

jessica.duncan@onemk.co.uk

A 17-YEAR-OLD boy was left shocked when he spotted a large CCTV camera in one of the toilets at his school.

The teenager from Radcliffe School, in Wolverton, said: "I have no idea when the camera appeared, but I just thought it was pretty freaky, especially being in the boy's toilets."

The student, who did not want to be named, did not know how many other toilets had CCTV, but was worried cameras could see the urinals and toilet cubicles. The school has responded to reassure students the CCTV can only see the communal area and the cameras were installed after concerns were raised over mess.

Jason Falkner, business manager at Radcliffe School, commented: "I can confirm that we have recently installed a CCTV camera in the communal area of one of our toilets. We have taken this step following feedback from both students and parents about their unhappiness around how messy the toilets were getting and how we could ensure they were available throughout the day.

"So far it has had a positive effect. The camera is not monitored and is only reviewed in the event of an issue."

The union for school leaders, National Association of Head Teachers, said there is justification for cameras pointing at the entrance to such areas, but a spokesman added: "Alternatives need to have been considered, and consultation undertaken with the school community."

Let's remain harmonious

IN light of recent news reports about Britain's exit from the EU and the consequences that this seems to already be having, I feel compelled to write a few words.

Some reports have gone as far as to say that it has now become socially acceptable to be racist in Britain.

I will start off by saying that I myself am a devout, practicing Muslim. My father is and throughout my whole life has been a Missionary within Islam.

I also volunteer as a youth leader for the Ahmadiyya Muslim Youth Association UK.

Even though I was not born in the UK, I have lived in this gracious country for 35 of my 37 years – I consider myself to be British through and through.

Since the result of the referendum, many statistics have emerged from various sources.

The Muslim Council of Britain have reported that they have compiled a dossier of over 100 hate crimes since Friday, June 24.

Before the results of the referendum, the annual survey by TELL MAMA, an Anti-Islamic hate monitoring group found a 326 per cent rise in incidents from last year. Could this be linked purely to public perception?

Partly yes, but I can't help but believe that there has certainly been some political influence with regards to this on the public.

Both Jeremy Corbyn and the PM, David Cameron made their concerns regarding this very clear in the House of Commons.

The Prime Minister was very clear in condemning xenophobic and racist abuse after the Brexit vote. Having said this, I am also fully aware of the comments made by Mr Cameron about Sadiq Khan only a few months ago.

Some ethnic groups have been suffering more than others and have had to withstand verbal attacks throughout the country – some of these even turning physical.

The National Police Chiefs' Council has stated that there has been a 57 per cent increase in people reporting hate crimes to the police over the past four days, compared to the four days prior to this (before the referendum) – more so by the Polish community.

Taking all of this in mind, we are all living in a time of change, change that is not only political but change that will also affect our own lives and the lives of our future generations.

With regards to racism, there will always be a small minority of people who hold racist views, in any country. Is Britain racist? Certainly not. Are all people that voted to leave the EU racist?

Send picture to win a funny prize

Yoshimi Senior caught this rare sight, a turtle at Fruzton

HERE at OneMK we know the lovely pictures you send in put a smile on our readers' faces so we have joined forces with the award-winning Comedy Cow to keep you smiling.

Each week we will be giving two free tickets to upcoming events in one of the club's three venues across MK to the reader who sends in the best picture of our city. Winners can use their tickets to choose from a host of stars coming to Milton Keynes.

For details on The Comedy Cow's future events visit thecomedycow.co.uk

Certainly not. Did all racists vote to leave the EU? I highly doubt it.

I would like to take this opportunity to try to encourage the people of Britain to embrace this change.

Islam teaches us to respect the views and decisions of our leaders and if this decision has been made, be it by the public, if it has been accepted by the government, we should try to embrace it and make the best of it.

There should be no pressure on anyone to initiate Article 50 and again, whenever this is done, we should try to accept and embrace the consequences and make the most of them.

It is now time for us to all come together, Brexitters and non-Brexitters alike and to look into the history of Great Britain which proves that we are a loving, caring country that has always taken care of and provided a sanctuary for those in need of our help – even before there was a European Union.

This is where I can proudly say that the Ahmadiyya Muslim Community of Great Britain is at the forefront of building relationships with all members of the public and groups, be they religious or political.

The Ahmadiyya Muslim Community holds several national events throughout the year just to try to encourage peace, love and harmony amongst all people of the country.

I would like to end on a quote that was said by the third Khalif (successor) of the Ahmadiyya Muslim Association, Mirza Nasir Ahmad: "Love for all, hatred for none."

This is certainly a motto that I have adopted and try to live my life by. I urge all your readers and indeed the British public to make this motto a part of their own lives, to enable Britain to stay the way it should.

We must reject hate

I WELCOME the debate that my letter to your paper (OneMK June 29) has provoked and thank everyone who responded to my letter both through your paper and to me personally.

I do want to stress that, as a democrat (and democracy was born in Greece) I accept the outcome of the referendum as the will of the majority.

But I deplore the tone of the campaign, which is widely agreed to have been xenophobic. It is also widely agreed that this tone and language has fed into giving SOME people permission to hate others.

It is sad that there has been an increase in racist incidents all over the country. And in our multicultural city, where we have long prided ourselves that we are different from other cities, there has been a 10 per cent increase in reported racist incidents, including heartbreaking situations in schools where children are telling other children to "go home."

So may I repeat the plea in my first letter: in our multicultural Milton Keynes, let us reject hateful xenophobia, remain open and welcoming to "new" people moving in, and provide opportunities for everyone to flourish and contribute.

His column written exclusively for OneMK

MILTON Keynes Chamber of Commerce has been made aware of instances of racism in the workplace across the UK following the EU Referendum.

The Chamber is urging local businesses to be united against the discrimination that has come to light since the British public voted to leave the EU. Companies should ensure their human resources policies are up to date and easily accessible to employees – particularly those that focus on bullying and harassment.

We're proud of the contribution that UK, EU and global employees make to the local economy here in Milton Keynes and across the country and have zero tolerance for the racism and discrimination that has reared its ugly head.

We are aware of businesses that fear verbal and physical attacks on people from outside the UK and will not stand for this treatment of our colleagues. It is our duty to ensure our workers have a safe environment.

City campaign goes to London

BY JESSICA DUNCAN
jessica.duncan@onemk.co.uk

DESTINATION MK has launched a new marketing campaign to promote the city.

The six posters released last Wednesday aim to go against all of the stereotypes of Milton Keynes and show the city in a new light.

The promotion, called unexpectedmk, highlights some of the unexpected views, activities and architecture that Milton Keynes has and turned these concepts on their head.

The posters will firstly be rolled out across the London Transport system including Euston mainline station and at targeted underground stations.

The year-long plan will also include an online presence, regional radio campaign and a TV advertisement in 2017.

A spokesman from Destination MK, the tourist information site, said: "This clever campaign aims to challenge those pre-conceived ideas of MK, turn them on their head, and have a little fun with it at the same time."

"We wanted to show off what MK has to offer and this campaign really does that, helping to promote MK regionally and nationally as a visitor destination.

"As part of the campaign, we want residents and visitors to show us their #unexpected discoveries in MK throughout the summer and to send us that photo of an amazing view you never thought you'd see, or that little pocket of unexpected countryside next to the big city, or maybe you had an experience you'd never thought you'd have in MK!"

Thames Valley Police are investigating reports of burglary and criminal damage, after damage was caused to a carriage and a warehouse building.

Two 16-year-old boys from London and a 15-year-old girl from Milton Keynes have been arrested on suspicion of criminal damage and burglary.

The former railway works is now a fully functioning depot leased by Knorr-Bremse Rail Systems (UK) Limited.

One of the boys has also been arrested on suspicion of possession of a knife blade/sharp pointed article in a public place.

The two boys have been bailed until August 17 and August 19, and the girl has been bailed until August 18.

Anyone with information is urged to contact 101, or call Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111 if you do not wish to speak directly to police.

Danger: Children were pictured playing on the tracks on the site, minutes before a train passed

'Security needs to be improved'

BY CHRIS KNIGHT

chris.knight@onemk.co.uk

SHOCKING pictures have emerged of children playing on the tracks at Wolverton Works – minutes before a train passed.

The images were sent in by rail journalist and Willen resident Phil Marsh who spotted the trespassers on June 6 at about 6.30pm.

The Royal Train passed about five minutes after the children had finished playing, and Mr Marsh fears it is only a matter of time before there is a serious accident on the site.

He said: "Security is not what it should be there, despite repeated warnings.

"When I went on a tour around the site last November, I was told then they have had a lot of trespassing.

"If these kids can get in, who else might be able to do something really evil?"

"If an accident were to happen, at best it would result in a serious injury."

Knorr-Bremse – the current tenants of Wolverton Works – admit the issue of maintaining security on the site is 'challenging'.

A spokesperson added: "We have experienced a number of trespassers on site and also some incidents of criminal damage taking place since taking over operations on the site nearly three years ago.

"One such incident is currently under police investigation, and others who are apprehended trespassing or causing damage on the site will also be referred to the police.

"The current high levels of security on the Wolverton site, which include CCTV and dog patrols, has been further increased."

OneMK contacted St Modwen – the owners of the site – for a comment, but did not receive a reply.

New £100m plans on display

THE COMMUNITY is invited to view the revised £100 million regeneration plans for Wolverton Works.

The proposals from developers St Modwen include new business premises for hundreds of current and future rail-related jobs, up to 375 new homes, a foodstore, public spaces and a heritage centre.

A spokesperson for St Modwen said: "We appreciate that the local community has been keen to hear about progress for the regeneration. We are delighted to say that we are now in a position to present our updated plans which we hope will be well-received."

From July 20, the plans will also be posted online at www.wolvertonworks.com.

The revised plans will be submitted to Milton Keynes Council by mid July, and the council will conduct its own statutory consultation.

The outline planning application will likely be considered by early autumn with the detailed application for the foodstore to be considered in late summer.

The new solid roof conservatory extension developed by Win-Dor is the ultimate in home improvements.

Alongside our more traditional Conservatories and Orangeries, they are also usable all year around but offer the customer yet more choice when it comes to design and aesthetics.

This new precision engineered roof allows customers to have an extra room that looks and feels more like an extension but can be installed by Win-Dor in a far quicker time and with far less disruption than a conventional build.

Worried about losing the light that a Conservatory or Orangery can provide, no need to be, skylights can be added to the Tiled Solid Roof to create a naturally light, bright and airy room.

YOU'RE SAFER WITH WIN-DOR

Many customers and installers are unaware that when you have a new solid roof conservatory or if you have an existing conservatory roof replaced with a solid one Local Authority Building Control Regulations are required.

Identities used for online scam

Warning: Ed Jones warns others of scam

BY JESSICA DUNCAN
jessica.duncan@onemk.co.uk

A LEUKAEMIA sufferer is warning others after he was targeted by what is believed to be an organised crime group.

Ed Jones, from Medbourne, had his identity stolen by a group who set up a shopping account and ordered goods.

Using his name and address, the gang were able to order more than £200 worth of clothes from La Redoute – a French mail order company that sells men's and women's clothing and homeware.

Mr Jones said: "I was told when I called La Redoute that I was one of several people in Milton Keynes whose identity has been used to set up an account. I received a postal statement for £212 of clothes ordered.

"I am always very safe with all my bank details and no money was taken from my account. The police confirmed that it is likely the group may be getting names and addresses from the electoral register."

The 45-year-old has been battling leukaemia since 2006 and continues to raise money with an annual music concert for the Bloodwise charity in a bid to help others with blood cancer.

Mr Jones added: "I had to fill out a form for Action Fraud and if Thames Valley Police are made aware that a lot of these forms have been done in Milton Keynes they will investigate."

"It is believed these gangs used different delivery addresses for the items and either intercepted the post or wait outside."

La Redoute, like many other shopping websites, offer customers the chance to buy and pay later with an account. A spokesman said: "We can't comment on specific customer cases."

Cloudy2Clear Announce Trusted Trader Partnership

Consumer champions Which? have now joined the thousands of customers who recognise that Cloudy2Clear Windows really are a business that you can TRUST. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has received the coveted 'Which? Trusted Trader' status after going through a rigorous accreditation process entirely focussed on customer service.

Group Managing Director Marcus McGee believes that Which? have endorsed Cloudy2Clear's long standing company policy of delivering the highest standards possible at all times. "Our service is simple. If your double glazing has misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Whilst a number of tradespeople perhaps don't focus on customer care as much as they should do, we make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle.

Locally Cloudy2Clear service the Bedford, Milton Keynes &

Leighton Buzzard areas and manager Stephen Moon agrees that this approach is a major factor in his success. "The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated as both my customers and, obviously a body as nationally important as Which? now recognise."

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Stephen a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Weather delays building works

BY SCOTT KIRK
scott.kirk@onemk.co.uk

A HOUSING development has been delayed because of high winds and 'complexities' during the build process.

OneMK was contacted by a reader saying that his experience of buying one of the apartments at Oakgrove was beset with continued delays.

He also said that he hadn't been contacted properly about the setbacks – something which developers Crest Nicholson deny.

The person trying to buy the apartment said: "I am stuck having exchanged contracts on a property which I have no idea when construction will be completed."

"There is nothing I can do," A spokesman for Crest Nicholson said:

"Unfortunately, due to complexities in the build process and unseasonably high winds earlier in the year which prevented work at height, the completion of Dreyer House has been unavoidably delayed.

"Crest Nicholson has been communicating with customers to ensure they are kept aware of all developments in the build process and we are working hard to ensure Dreyer House is completed as soon as possible to the high quality standard our customers have come to expect."

Breath of fresh air proves dear

BY CHRIS KNIGHT
chris.knight@onemk.co.uk

MILTON Keynes Council is set to splash up to £2.5million replacing the air cooling system at the Civic Offices.

A recent inspection of the building revealed the current system for providing fresh and purified air was not fit for purpose.

And despite the recent budget cuts handed down to the council by Central Government, Councillor Rob Middleton, cabinet member for resources, admitted the work had to be done.

He said: "Surveyors found the air cooling system was not fit for purpose. The advice is we need to replace it, or risk being in breach of health and safety regulations.

"With a heavy heart, I have to give authority for these works to be carried out.

"Staff and residents should still feel comfortable using the Civic Offices, but there is a small risk and I could not in all good conscience continue without addressing this issue."

Cost-saving measures will be discussed at a meeting on July 26, before settling on a final outlay for the work which is expected to begin within the next few months.

The investigation was carried out as part of the Council's overall plans to refurbish the Civic Offices.

Brexit Vote: What now for your investments and pensions?

With the United Kingdom having now decided that they would like to leave the European Union by a close margin of 52% to 48%, we now need to look forward at how this will affect us all. Regardless of personal opinion and despite how you may feel the result should have ended, this is a first of its kind in history. We are in unknown territory and many investors are extremely concerned as to how the result of the Brexit will affect their pensions and investments.

Across the country financial advisers and wealth managers such as ourselves at Wealth and Tax Management have had to face the realisation that no matter how the vote goes, it would affect our client's investments in some way or form. Naturally we have a strategy in place, but what about everyone else? What should you do in the wake of the EU Referendum?

Well, despite what you hear in the media concerning the performance and worries of the stock market, if you have the correct investment strategy in place, cashing in your investments now in order to reinvest when markets are higher is probably not the best idea. Do remember; your pensions and majority of investments should be there for the long term. It is natural to see fluctuations in their values so do not focus on today's value. Do bear in mind that when the value goes down you can use your income earned from your investments or regular contributions to purchase more stock/units at a cheaper price. If you reinvest your money when the markets are higher then you are purchasing less stocks but at a higher price. The saying "if you can see the train you have missed it already" really applies to this scenario.

Do also make sure that you spread your investment risk by diversifying what you invest into. There will always be winners and losers in the stock market, so by investing in just one or two funds dramatically increases your exposure to losing your hard earned cash. By investing across a broad range of investments you reduce this exposure and it will hopefully level out the unknown changes that will be felt by the Brexit result.

Lastly, make sure to check up on your investment and pension providers as to how they are reacting to the Brexit. They will most likely have published their own information so check on their websites to keep up to date on what goes on. You will have noticed in the news recently that Standard Life and Old Mutual have each suspended property funds because of illiquidity. Do not worry though as these providers will have temporary processes in place to continue their day-to-day activities so you probably will not be vastly affected."

If you are approaching retirement and/or considering early retirement and need advice why not get in touch?

We work with business executives aged 45+ who are ready to take their life and career by the scruff of the neck.

We are also offering a free pensions and retirement assessment worth £270 to the first 10 people who contact us before 29th July 2016.

Designing your future

'We need to do our rich history justice'

BY CHRIS KNIGHT

chris.knight@onemk.co.uk

MILTON Keynes Museum and Milton Keynes Council have announced it's now full steam ahead for their expansion plans.

Constructors Willmott Dixon has been chosen to take on the building of two major new galleries to tell the key stories of the area, from pre-history times right up to the present day.

An ancient gallery will cover everything from the Stone Age through to this area's role during the Wars of the Roses and Civil War. Crucially, it will also see key archaeological finds returned to Milton Keynes for people to enjoy.

A second large gallery will tell the story of how Milton Keynes was planned to become the UK's most ambitious new city, and how its first 50 years have unfolded.

Bill Griffiths, museum director, said: "Our aims are as ambitious ever: to create a fantastic museum of which the people of MK can be proud, which draws in people from all over the UK and

Expansion: Milton Keynes Museum has been given planning permission and building work is expected to start next year allows us to bring home our unique archaeology."

The plans suffered a setback when Heritage Lottery Fund's funding committee declined to put more cash into the proposed £7million project.

With £5.6million funding secured from the council, project partners have spent the last six months revising plans and agreed an initial £750,000 fundraising campaign to plug the gap.

Councillor Liz Gifford, cabinet member for community services, said: "A fully-fledged 'Milton Keynes centric' museum has always been in our 'masterplan' - so we owe it to ourselves, as well as past and future generations, to have a museum that will do our heritage and history justice."

Now planning permission has been granted, building is expected to start in early 2017 with the opening planned for the museum's 2018 season.

F1 star's pit stop to launch cycles

FORMULA 1 champion and McLaren driver Jenson Button visited Willen Lake on Wednesday to officially launch Santander Cycles MK. OneMK reporter JESSICA DUNCAN spoke to him about the scheme

What do you think of the bikes?

"I have ridden the bikes quite a lot and they are really nice. They are heavy duty, which is what they need to be.

"It's a great scheme given the redways in Milton Keynes. There are not many cities around the world that cater for cyclists and as a keen cyclist I think it's great. It's also great that 5,000 people have already signed up to it. Other cities should take notice. Hopefully one day we can organise a Santander bike race around Willen in Milton Keynes."

Do you cycle every week?

"When I'm at home I cycle – if I'm there for a week I will cycle on four or five days. I love cycling with friends in Monaco to Italy, it is a social thing for me. Mentally cycling helps me with F1 as it's great to get away.

What message would you give to people trying out Santander bikes?

"MK is the perfect playground for the bicycles. You don't have to be on the roads with cars and it's good for keeping fit.

"If I lived here I would use them every day and if I worked here in a nine to five job I would use them to get to work.

"Hopefully the use grows and MK will become the Amsterdam of the UK."

What would you say to bike vandals?

"People should always be respectful, especially to such a good scheme that keeps people fit and helps people get to work in a cheaper way rather than cars."

Do you fancy the Top Gear job?

"I don't know what I'm doing

Get on your bike: Jenson Button tries out one of the Santander cycles with a ride around Willen Lake next year, don't know if I'll be in F1, or with McLaren or someone else so I can't say where I will be.

"I like the idea, car shows are exciting and I think there is always interesting touches a racing driver would bring to a show like Top Gear."

Would you ever consider driving for Red Bull?

"I am open to anything in F1 but I think I am way too old for them by about 12 years."

Chaos expected in Southern Rail cuts

BY EMMA BOWDEN

editor@onemk.co.uk

AS 341 train services are cut fed up passengers have told of their 'nightmare' journeys with Southern Rail from Milton Keynes Central to London.

The introduction of an emergency timetable, which came into effect on Monday and will run until further notice, includes the suspension of Southern's west London line between MK Central and Clapham Junction – a route essential for many commuters travelling into the capital.

In a bid to help with the expected chaos, London Midland is accepting 'Southern only' and 'Via Kensington Olympia' tickets between London Euston and Milton Keynes Central.

Southern Rail says it has taken the action to cut 15 per cent of its services because of unprecedented levels of sickness and an unwillingness of staff to work overtime.

Alex Koszykowska, 21, a sales and marketing assistant who lives in Monkston and Nightmare service: Alex Koszykowska was already frustrated with Southern Rail services before these extra cuts were made works in Fulham, uses the Southern service for her daily commute.

She said: "It has been a nightmare since the conductor strikes have happened, and now the high level of staff sickness. The trains are only one an hour and sometimes they expect you to wait an hour for the next one, which is then cancelled."

Grant McKay, 41, from Peartree Bridge who also works near London, added:

"Southern Rail's service has been disappointing, disgraceful and unacceptable. It has to be the worst company that I've ever had to deal with."

MK South MP Iain Stewart, who was formerly Parliamentary Private Secretary for Transport added: "I have already met with Southern Rail recently to voice my concerns and will continue to raise these issues."

Disgust: Amelia Rosalyn has criticised Arriva following the price increase in April. Her four-weekly saver ticket was rejected by a bus driver due to a recent policy change

Teen's ticket turmoil

BY CHRIS KNIGHT

chris.knight@onemk.co.uk

A STUDENT has slammed Arriva for 'blatant exploitation' after her student ticket was rejected.

Amelia Rosalyn, 19, from New Bradwell, purchased a four-weekly saver ticket at the discounted rate of £40, and tried to use it on the Number 7 service from Wolverton on June 23.

But despite checking the conditions beforehand, she was told by the driver a recent policy change required end dates on student ID cards, and her ticket was invalid.

She said: "I am absolutely disgusted with Arriva and their blatant exploitation and disregard of their customers who have no choice as there is no other option. My money is wasted."

"An adult fare is now £2.20 which is taking advantage of the elderly, students, and those in poor financial situations."

"The quality of the service is shocking for the price paid. Buses often simply do not show up, with no explanation or notice, and passengers are left waiting for what is sometimes hours for the next bus."

After hearing of Amelia's complaint, Arriva has urged anyone who has suffered something similar to contact its customer services team.

Maq Alibhai, area managing director of Arriva, also defended its prices, saying return fares had been frozen, and that discussions for reduced flat and weekly fares for under 19s were underway.

She added: "Reliability is of paramount importance, but due to the proximity to the M1 we do experience delays as traffic tends to use local roads to avoid incidents."

Bake-Off star's college course

BY JESSICA DUNCAN
jessica.duncan@onemk.co.uk

BBC TWO'S Bake-Off Crème de la Crème judge Claire Clark MBE is to open a new Academy for budding young pastry chefs thanks to a unique partnership with Milton Keynes College.

The Claire Clark Academy will operate from the college's Bletchley campus, taking advantage of the first-class, purpose-built kitchen facilities and expert tutors. Claire is looking forward to working with the first cohort of students this September.

She said: "This is a time when we need to be encouraging them to study and further their careers to meet demand for the diminishing supply of trained, skilled pastry chefs in the industry."

"There will also be courses for the enthusiastic home baker to hone their skills and master that tricky technique."

Maria Bowness, MK College's head of school for hospitality, added: "By utilising our outstanding facilities and internal expertise, alongside Claire's experience and our combined industry connections, we have a unique opportunity to prepare students for long-lasting, fulfilling careers in catering and hospitality."

You could make a difference to a child or young person's life

Milton Keynes Council is keen to recruit people who can offer a safe and loving home for a child/young person in care. We are especially seeking carers for teenagers. As a Milton Keynes Council foster carer you will be provided with a generous allowance plus support and training.

Our foster carers come from all walks of life and across a diverse community. They offer children and young people a nurturing, caring home environment where they can begin to thrive and reach their full potential.

It's a challenging role; one which will always ask for a great deal of input and support from you. However in providing a home to a child/young person who is unable to live with their family for a period of time you will be creating a wonderful experience for everyone involved.

Round and About MK

oneMK briefs

Deborah Bonham

REGULAR worldwide festival favourite Deborah Bonham and her powerful band featuring players from Paul Rodgers, Black Sabbath and Rory Gallagher will be coming to The Stables in Wavendon on Friday, July 22.

Garden Safari Week

WOBURN Abbey will host a Garden Safari Week from July 25 to 29. This is a week full of exciting activities aimed at children aged between seven and 12. The focus will be on exploring Woburn Abbey Gardens, learning about the plants, history and inhabitants. Mornings will be full of fun activities, with afternoons of thrilling adventures. Children can choose to come for one day or for the entire week. Tickets cost £35 per day or £150 for the whole week. It will take place from 10am to 3pm every day.

Extra train service

A SPECIAL train service will call in at Bow Brickhill, Woburn Sands and Aspley Guise on Saturday night and Sunday. This is because of the Bedford River Festival, which will see extra trains being put on for people wanting to attend.

Lido's heating up

WOBURN Lido re-opened on July 7 and a heated pool is about to be installed. Sport England's Inspired Facilities fund has donated £38,000 so that the pool can be heated, with the heater expected to be in place in around two to three weeks. Chris Smith from the Woburn Lido said: "Since the committee took over in 2014 there have been some critical issues discovered with the structure of the pool which jeopardised the use of the facility and the charity as a whole. "It is incredible to get this funding for the benefit of our community."

Getting back on their feet after strike

THE family who had to move out of their house when lightning struck it in Broughton last month are getting back on their feet.

Marsha Wallace, 39, was at home with children Michaela, seven, Ezra, six, and Rachel, three, when the house in Poppy Avenue in Broughton was struck during the thunderstorm on June 7.

The community rallied to help the family after they were told they couldn't live in the house while repairs were being made.

The family have been told that they should be able to move back into their home by January or February, but in the mean time they are now living in a rented house in Woburn Sands paid for by their insurance company after living temporarily in Campbell Park.

Marsha said she was overwhelmed by the support from the community, and hopes to put on an event for them soon.

Woburn Sands drains need sorting after flood

OneMK will bring you all the latest news from your community in our feature - Round and About MK. Every month we will focus on an area to bring you up to date with what is going on. This month we are focussing on Woburn Sands and Broughton with reporter SCOTT KIRK finding out what's happening. Tell us what is going on in your area by emailing editor@onemk.co.uk

Floods: Woburn Sands High Street. Pic by Sharona Voigtlander-Ford

EFFORTS are being made to improve the drainage in Woburn Sands following the dreadful floods that blighted the town last month.

Record levels of rain fell down in Milton Keynes on June 8, while lightning also struck some houses in the city.

One of the worst affected areas was Woburn Sands, where flash floods caused misery for drivers and the High Street was completely flooded.

The chief reason for this problem was because the drains couldn't cope with the amount of water, and Woburn Sands Town Council believes that this is because the drains haven't been cleaned properly.

The council met at its monthly meeting on Monday night and agreed to call on Milton Keynes Council and Central Bedfordshire Council, which both have responsibility for maintaining drains in the area, to get the drains cleaned more frequently because people are afraid that the town will be flooded again if a similar downpour comes down over Woburn Sands again soon.

Town clerk Lynne Stapleton said: "We are going to try to arrange a meeting with officers from both councils to get a regular cleaning process in place.

"It's urgent that it's done and people are quite nervous about it happening again so hopefully we won't get that sort of rain for a long time.

"The drains couldn't take that amount of water but the community has dealt with it absolutely brilliantly.

"Everybody accepted that it happened and everybody seems to think that the drains couldn't take the amount of water."

Milton Keynes Council said that it would be bringing in an additional gully cleaner to cover all the areas of Milton Keynes that were affected by the floods, including Woburn Sands.

A spokesman said: "June 2016 was one of the wettest months with almost twice the usual amount of rain falling in that month including a lot of localised flooding across Milton Keynes."

"One of these areas was Woburn Sands however our Highways team along with Ringway provided assistance and support to residents, mainly out of hours. They also hand-cleaned gullies and delivered sandbags where needed.

"After the adverse weather in June, we now have an additional gully cleaner which has been mobilised to work specifically in problem areas where large amounts of debris run into the road drains."

A spokesman from Central Beds Council said that a full investigation would take place, and that they went to Aspley Hill at the time the flooding happened.

"We are aware of a small number of locations affected by the recent intense localised storms.

"We were called out to Aspley Hill at the time of the storms.

"As part of our standard procedures, the council is planning to carry out a full investigation of the drainage systems (not just roadside drains).

"The council carries out regular gully clearing and prioritises areas prone to flooding."

Golf club prepares for the return of Ricoh Women's British Open WOUBURN Golf Club is hosting the Ricoh Women's British Open from July 28 to July 31 in an event which is expected to attract thousands of people to the area.

One of the biggest names at the event will be Woburn's very own professional Charley Hull, the world number 26.

The Ricoh Women's British Open Championship will be staged on the Marquess course.

It will be the 10th Women's British Open to be staged at Woburn but the first since becoming a major championship.

It is an exciting time for the golf course, which is also hosting the Travis Perkins Masters from September 2 to 4, which has been won in the last three years by Colin Montgomerie.

The Prince of Wales Amateur Challenge Trophies will also take place at the course on Friday, August 19.

Project fishes out a way to help wildlife

BY SCOTT KIRK

scott.kirk@onemk.co.uk

A £70,000 project has now opened to support wildlife – and in particular fish – for the enjoyment of future generations.

The Parks Trust and The Environment Agency have joined forces to protect wildlife by opening the old river channel in Millfield, Stony Stratford.

Both organisations have invested in the improvements to the river channel to improve the flow of water around the structure to allow a fish passage. It has created 250 metres of new habitat, which in the future will be used for fish spawning.

Rob Clapham, project manager from The Environment Agency, said: "The Great Ouse is heavily modified in this area, which has negative impacts on fish and invertebrates.

"This new channel and other enhancement works in the area will help to maintain a healthy and diverse river ecology for future generations to enjoy."

Protecting wildlife for the future: This picture, which was taken by a drone, shows the old river channel in Millfield, Stony Stratford

The project will also help the river life to move more freely below and above the Millfield sluice, which is a gate controlling water flow. It will also offer a refuge to fish and other wildlife in floods.

Rob Riekie, landscape and operations director at The Parks Trust, said: "The designed structure at the inlet allows more water in the channel at times of high water and reduces to a smaller, consistent flow in the summer, allowing the main channel to continue to be the main water course, while continuing to enable invertebrates and the river's other wildlife to move freely. It also acts as a fish refuge when the river is flooded and stops fish being washed away."

Robot George to go on tour

BY SCOTT KIRK
scott.kirk@onemk.co.uk

VETERAN robot George - based at the National Museum of Computing (TNMOC) on the Bletchley Park site - is due to go on tour.

The 1950s robot, which appeared on BBC Wallace and Gromit series World of Invention in 2010, has been based at TNMOC for the past three years.

But George will be going out to see the country when he leaves in a couple of months.

His first stop will be the Science Museum in London. Other venues have yet to be agreed, but he may be touring internationally too.

During the Bytes Festivals at TNMOC from July 30 to August 28 George will get to meet Pepper, a social robot from Japan.

Pepper is one of just two social robots in the UK at present.

The robot will be talking with visitors and may even try to communicate with George during her visit.

The contrast between George and a 2016 robot

By George: George with his creator Tony Sale who died in 2011 should be a fascinating insight into how the technology has developed.

Also during Bytes, visitors will be able to try out board robots that can be brought to life by smartphones and tablets.

There also will be a competition throughout Bytes focusing on the OiDroids.

What is the UK's future following EU referendum?

BY CHRIS KNIGHT
chris.knight@onemk.co.uk

THE future of the United Kingdom following the outcome of the EU referendum has been discussed at several events across the city.

In a speech at the Open University on July 5, Lord David Blunkett, pictured, called for all of the home nations to stand together and remain united in the wake of the seismic Brexit victory.

In a lecture titled 'After the referendum – What is the UK's place in the world?', he said: "We have been split in our country by age, by class, by geography, and by educational opportunity."

"It is going to take a massive effort to put Britain back together again."

"I hope we can do it in a way that demonstrates Britain is not the kind of nation we have seen in the last fortnight."

"We need to prevent further devolution by convincing all we have more in common and less to gain apart.

"We have got to rebuild confidence and optimism that there is an alternative to a divided Britain, to jingoism, to the old resenting the young or vice versa."

And a day later, dozens gathered at the latest meeting of Milton Keynes People's Assembly.

Despite the majority present voting in favour of remain, a general consensus was reached that Britain must now leave the EU, and the outcome of the referendum should not be fought.

Jennifer Marklew, a representative of Milton Keynes Green Party, added: "We can't not leave the EU – we can't change our minds."

"We need to leave the EU in the right way, by protecting workers' rights, keeping environmental legislation, and ensuring rights such as minimum wage are maintained."

Faster internet to boost schools and businesses

DIGITAL infrastructure provider CityFibre has announced Milton Keynes will become the UK's latest Gigabit City.

It will be making more than 160km of pure fibre network for faster internet available to businesses, schools and colleges via its city launch partner dbfio and education partner Exa Networks.

Councillor Rob Middleton, cabinet member responsible for resources and innovation at Milton Keynes Council, said: "It's difficult to overstate how much of an impact becoming a Gigabit City is going to have on Milton Keynes."

"For MK businesses to compete on a national and indeed global scale, we not only need the high skilled people we are lucky to have in the city, but also the ultra-fast digital infrastructure to make it all happen. The latest huge investment will make ultra-fast internet even more accessible to local businesses."

theatre thriller

CALL the Midwife's Helen George comes to Milton Keynes Theatre to star in After Miss Julie, a play written by highly acclaimed playwright Patrick Marber.

Inspired by Strindberg's 1888 masterpiece, the psychological thriller is set in 1945 in an English country house on the eve of Labour's landslide victory at the end of the Second World War.

During a ball, the beautiful daughter of the peer who owns the house wanders into the servant's quarters. As she flirts with her father's handsome chauffeur, indifferent to the presence of his fiancée, what begins as game-playing ignites into passion with devastating consequences.

The show will be at the theatre from Monday until Saturday, July 23 with performances at 7.30pm every day. On Wednesday, July 20 and Saturday, July 23 there will be an additional performance at 2.30pm.

SUMMER is finally here and it is always good to remind ourselves about how to keep pets safe in the warmer months.

Even when it is 22 degrees outside, the inside of a car can reach 47 degrees within an hour.

As you can imagine, this is far too hot for pets, mainly dogs who are left in cars.

It is important to exercise at reasonable times of the day in hotter months, either early in the morning or late in the evening, to prevent your dog from overheating.

Another reason to exercise in cooler times is to prevent burns to your dog's feet. If you place the back of your hand on the pavement and cannot keep it there for five seconds, it is likely too hot for your pet to walk on.

It would be better to either have your pet walk on the grass or at a different time of day.

Providing shelter as well as fresh, cool drinking water is important not only for dogs, but also cats, rabbits and small furries.

Summer is a fantastic time to enjoy with your pets.

Please make sure you have a safe and happy summer!

MK LIFE columnist Dr Amy Converse, of Vets4Pets in Bletchley, tells readers how best to take care of their pets during the warm summer months

THE chalk and cheese pairing of comedian Kevin Hart and former wrestler Dwayne 'The Rock' Johnson shine in buddy comedy Central Intelligence.

Humiliated by bullies in front of everyone back in high school, overweight Robbie Weiricht's (Johnson) shame is spared when Calvin Joyner (Hart) – the most popular kid in school – steps in.

Fast forward 20 years and Calvin is living an uninspired life as a husband and an accountant. But his life is turned upside down after accepting a Facebook friend request from unknown Bob Stone, who turns out to be lean, mean CIA super-agent Robbie.

From there, the action unfolds in an unpredictable fashion, but Central Intelligence's charm lies in the rapport and growing chemistry between Hart and Johnson. Both are haunted by the past and the developing friendship meets various snags along the way.

However, it is Johnson who surprisingly delivers the greater laughs with Hart acting as the straight man out of the pair.

The former wrestler and action star belies his imposing physical stature to demonstrate a previously unseen softer side to great comic effort.

It won't be remembered as a classic, but Central Intelligence is an enjoyable watch as a result of its star pairing.

HEART Breakfast is excited following last week's Milton Keynes Theatre pantomime announcement that EastEnders star Samantha Womack will be appearing in Dick Whittington.

Samantha dropped into to see us on Heart Breakfast. She is best known for playing Ronnie Mitchell in EastEnders but dropped by to talk about playing Queen Rat in the panto from December 8 to January 14.

She is excited to be swarming the streets of London with her rodent friends in the classic tale. Keep listening to Heart, as Samantha will be back on the show to play the Big Town Showdown against some of the other stars of panto this year.

We also had a chat with Olly Murs on Friday, ahead of the first play of his new single You don't know love. He is so chuffed to be back making music.

Finally, don't miss your chance to win cash on Heart's Happy Summer Days. You could win up to £10,000 every day when we play.

PROPERTY TALK

>with NIGEL LEWIS

Flat with celebrity pub downstairs

FOR some drinkers there is nothing sadder than the sight of a derelict pub. And that's the fate that befell The Cross Keys, a former Georgian-era watering hole that, like many thousands of pubs across the UK, struggled to attract enough customers.

What's different about The Cross Keys is that it's had some very famous customers pass through its doors including painters JMW Turner, James Whistler and James Sargent, writer Agatha Christie, poet Dylan Thomas, The Rolling Stones and reggae star Bob Marley. More recent patrons have included The Duchess of Cambridge, who popped in once for a drink, and Piers Morgan and Zac Goldsmith, who have both campaigned to save it.

Their efforts were not in vain. The pub, which is in on Lawrence Street in Chelsea, London, was reopened earlier this year after a three-year closure and a £500,000 refit and is now being run by Mark Dyer, who has connections to the royal family.

This includes the fact that its sister pub, The Brown Cow, is a favourite haunt of Prince Harry and his high society mates.

But The Cross Keys is no longer just a pub. The upper floors have also been given a makeover and converted into four luxury apartments.

The latest of these to come on the market is this two-bedroom maisonette offering amazing views over West London, available via Winkworth (020 7589 6616) at £1.695 million.

On cue, Hendry's former home is for sale

FOR many snooker fans Scottish-born Stephen Hendry was the greatest player ever and his silverware cabinet proves the point.

Not only was he the youngest ever World Champion but during his 26-year career he won a further six world titles and was the sport's world number one for eight consecutive seasons, to name a few of his achievements.

At his side during all of these years was his wife Mandy who he met when he was 16 at a Pontins holiday camp. The pair married in 1995 and then bought a palatial home in Auchterarder, an upmarket town next to the Gleneagles hotel. Hendry was brought up in nearby Fife.

While living in Auchterarder the couple had two sons and it is to this property that Hendry retired in 2011, honing his single-digit golf handicap, working as a snooker commentator and supporting another of his passions – Hearts FC.

But in 2014 it was revealed that Hendry had left his wife and had moved to the south of England to pursue a relationship with a children's entertainer and actress, Lauren Thundow.

His ex-wife Mandy kept the house but she's now put their former family home on the market with agent Savills (0131 247 3738) for £1.2 million. The property is on the outskirts of Auchterarder in an area that has some of Scotland's most expensive roads. The house has five bedrooms, three bathrooms, a decked patio, paddock and riding arena and 2.4 acres of land with development potential.

Most crucially for snooker fans, it also comes with a snooker room where there's still a full-size snooker table, scoreboard, picture of Hendry winning titles and several examples of his silverware.

House that's from Russia, with love...

You may not know who Boris Pasternak is but you'll recognise the name of his most famous book, Doctor Zhivago, the epic love story set in Russia during the run up to the First World War.

The book was finished in 1956 but immediately banned in Russia and not published outside until a year later, albeit to worldwide acclaim. The epic story, which includes a bewildering array of characters and locations, received an even wider audience when it was turned into a film in 1966 by British director David Lean.

Starring Omar Sharif, Julie Christie, Rod Steiger, Alec Guinness and Tom Courtenay, the film was a huge global box-office success and won five Academy Awards.

Boris Pasternak was not only a novelist but a member of a high-achieving family. His father Leonid was a famous impressionist painter while other family high-fliers have included a renowned biochemist and a philosopher.

The most recent member of the family to win acclaim is UK-based author and journalist Anna Pasternak, Boris's great grand-daughter. She is most famous for her 1994 book Princess In Love, which revealed the love affair between Princess Diana and James Hewitt.

She has written a new book due to be published soon, Lara, which explores the love story said to be the inspiration for Doctor Zhivago – the long affair that took place between her great grandfather Boris Pasternak and his mistress Olga Ininskaya. A six-part TV series based on the book is also to follow.

Anna is also moving house and has put her home, White Cottage within the Fawley Court estate near Henley-on-Thames, on the market. It's a three-bedroom Grade II listed former summer house built by Sir Christopher Wren featuring an extraordinary hexagonal drawing room. The property is on the market with agent Savills via its Henley office (01491 843000) for £1.275 million.

Carol's property move adds up

TV's Carol Vorderman should know a thing or two about property. As well as a long run co-presenting on the cult Channel 4 show Countdown, the Welsh-born mathematician presented ITV's Better Homes.

It was a home refurbishment game show in which contestants competed to do up properties for a cash prize. The person who added the most value to their property won each week's show.

Vorderman was clearly paying attention while presenting the programme, which ran for five years during the early noughties.

In 2007 she bought a modernist detached house for £1.1 million and then set about renovating the unusual property, which is just outside Clifton Village in Bristol.

But the five-bedroom house, which was built during the 1970s, is now up for sale at £2.6m so she and her mother, who has lived with her for years, can move nearer to the centre of Bristol.

Vorderman also has some ambitious plans for her career. Next year she is planning to be the ninth woman to complete a solo round-the-world-trip in her plane despite getting her pilot's licence just two years ago. Her endeavours are to be filmed for a Channel 5 documentary.

In the meantime, her Bristol property is on the market with agent Knight Frank (0117 911 4665) and comes with a large landscaped garden, heated swimming pool and four reception rooms.

There's no mystery as to who lived here

IT IS now 40 years since Agatha Christie, the undisputed queen of murder mysteries, died. But despite such a long time passing, Christie remains a mainstay of publishing, theatre, film and television.

This year it was announced that Brian Blessed is to revive her play The Hollow while the success of last Christmas's And Then There Were None, starring Aidan Turner, is set to be followed by The Witness For The Prosecution.

In the meantime, The Mousetrap, the longest running play in the world, is in its 64th year and shows no signs of ending. And there are regular revivals of her two most famous characters – Hercule Poirot and Jane Marple – on TV.

On top of all this, the Guinness Book of Records lists her as the best-selling novelist of all time. She has sold more than two billion copies and she is said to be the third most published author in the world.

Christie is most celebrated in the town of Torquay, Devon where she was born in 1890 into a wealthy family. But it's in London where she left her mark the most.

She is recorded living in several addresses including townhouses at Cresswell Place in Chelsea, where she lived with her first husband during the 1920s, as well as a house in Camden where she wrote three novels including Murder on the Orient Express.

She also lived at 58 Sheffield Terrace from 1934 to 1941, where she is said to have written 16 of her novels including Death On The Nile.

Her last London address was a flat at Swan Court in Chelsea where several novels including The Mousetrap were penned. A flat is currently available for sale within the building with agent Pastor Real Estate (020 3195 9595) at £999,999.

possible. Please note I take no responsibility of condition of item

JLR's £20m home for ultimate cars

By: Chris Russon

A £20 MILLION facility has been opened by Jaguar Land Rover to create some of the world's most desirable cars. The new headquarters of JLR's Special Vehicle Operations division has the ability to turn out more than 5,000 bespoke models a year to satisfy motoring VIPs. Hand-finished and crafted to the hilt the SVR cars can be painted in any colour required with luxury interiors decked out to individual specification. Elite buyers can spend up to £50,000 embellishing their cars to make them absolute one-offs, taking personalisation to the extreme.

Much of the 20,000 square metre SVO site in Oxford Road, Ryton-on-Dunsmore in Coventry – close to Jaguar's spiritual Browns Lane home in the city – is taken up with an ultra-modern paint shop covering the equivalent of 46 tennis courts and including more than 500 metres of track. JLR says that from 36 primary colours there are 288 paint permutations and individual hues can be mixed on demand. There's also a choice of satin, matt, metallic or a deep lustre ChromaFlair finishes and each is baked to perfection at 140 degrees centigrade for 40 minutes.

Primer coats used in the treatment have the heat turned up to 180 degrees and the whole paint process involves robotics as much as traditional hand-spray techniques. The result is models that look a million dollars resplendent in colours not normally seen on the likes of Range Rovers or Jaguar F-TYPEs – and each denoted by special SVO badges front and rear. The paint shop is also geared up to cater for regular buyers who want a special paint finish with the bodies being transported by road from JLR's Solihull factory for spraying at the new workshops. The opening of the SVO building comes two years after JLR set up the specialist team headed by former Land Rover boss John Edwards. With 200 employees at the new works SVO now has a workforce of more than 1,000 producing specialist vehicles such as the Range Rover Sport SVR, the Range Rover SVAutobiography and the Jaguar F-TYPE SVR. Production is carried out under F1-style conditions in a dust-free environment. Vehicles being worked on are protected by mat covers bearing the legend 'Passion for Perfection' – a mission statement if ever there was. Models being prepared included armoured Land Rovers for VIPs as well as examples of the Project 7 F-TYPE 200mph high performance roadster of which only 250 are to be produced.

The SVO team is also tasked with looking after classic Jaguars and Land Rovers from around the world and as well as restoration work it is also producing parts to keep the cars in working order. Other projects include the production of 'living legends' such as a new run of the six remaining E-TYPE Lightweights and a recreation of the Jaguar XKSS.

As SVO director Mark Stanton said: "We are turning up the volume from 10 to 11." A similar operation is being created for classic Land Rovers where donor vehicles will be returned to their former glory and sold on. At the heart of the new headquarters is a computerised commissioning suite where buyers can configure their vehicles to individual specifications using a giant tablet-style display to select trim combinations and other extras. JLR says it plans to expand its SVO operations and increase the number of its vehicles with the bespoke touch.

At the opening of the new building, John Edwards said: "Our business plans are driven by the desire for 'halo' vehicles and other exclusive products from customers in all corners of the globe. "The vision for Special Vehicle Operations is to launch one new SVO car every year, on average, for at least the next four years."

All change for Audi A3

By: Edward Stephens

AUDI'S best selling A3 has just been given a major revamp - with sharper styling, new engines and new technology.

But although the model is available in four guises - three-door hatchback, five-door Sportback, saloon and cabriolet - traditionally it's the ubiquitous three-door that seems to dominate our roads because of its entry level price tag.

The introduction of a new 1.0-litre, three-cylinder 115bhp petrol engine in this model means the new third generation A3 will be available from £19,365 as Audi follows the trend towards smaller but more powerful engines with lower insurance premiums and no road tax.

Along with its siblings the latest three-door now gets a new "face" with a more aggressive, wider grille as well as flatter headlights with distinctive jagged bottom edges so you will know when one is behind you, even after dark.

In fact the lights are now more piercing as the old halogen lamps have been replaced with xenon with LED daytime running lights as standard.

At the rear of the car there are new look bumpers and a wider diffuser while new alloy wheel designs and new exterior colours have created a fresh new image.

The car comes with a choice of six-speed manual gearbox or seven-speed S tronic automatic box in both the 1.0-litre, 1.4-litre and 2.0-litre TFSI petrol models as well as the S3 quattro and 1.6-litre TDI diesel.

For the 2.0-litre TDI 150 bhp quattro model and range-topping 184 bhp quattro - at £30,915 in S line trim - it's a choice of six-speed manual or six-speed S tronic.

There are no dramatic changes to the interior of the car but you can now order it with the same virtual cockpit first seen in the Audi TT - which allows the speedometer and rev counter to reduce in size to allow a sat nav screen to appear between them - and charge your smart phone simply by placing it in the armrest.

The latest advances in technology means the car is now available with a variety of assistance systems including one which takes over the driving in slow moving traffic jams.

Traffic jam assist means that radar sensors and a front camera process the vital information around the car allowing the system to brake, accelerate and even steer in an ever increasing move towards autonomous driving.

You can also order your car with park assist - which allows the car to park itself - and the useful cross traffic assist which warns you of cars approaching from either direction as you reverse out of a parking spot.

And while the new model brings with it new engines Audi has retained some tried and tested ones from the outgoing range, including the 1.6-litre TDI Sport with its promise of more than 74 miles per gallon.

And just a few minutes behind the wheel showed why this is still a best seller with its 110bhp engine delivering gutsy performance and plenty of torque from a car priced at £22,480.

During my drive I couldn't match Audi's official fuel consumption figure of 72.4mpg but did record a respectable 56mpg from a model with a 0-62mph time of 10.5 seconds and top speed of 124mph.

For anyone preferring petrol and looking for even sharper performance the 1.4-litre TFSI engine has also been carried over and boasts a 0-62mph time of 8.1 seconds on its way to a top speed of 136mph.

Despite its lively performance - and it really does feel crisp when you push it - this model will achieve around 50mpg thanks in part to its cylinder on demand technology which turns off two of the engine's four cylinders when it's not under pressure.

The first A3 took to the road in 1996 rapidly becoming one of Audi's most successful cars and certainly its best seller in a short space of time.

The latest revamp marks the German luxury car maker's determination to ensure that sales continue to stay buoyant.

PEUGEOT, CITROEN, DS REVEAL REAL MPG By: Stewart Smith

IN the wake of the emissions scandal involving Volkswagen the French car group PSA which makes Peugeot, Citroen and DS vehicles has decided to release data which shows fuel consumption in real world driving conditions. Instead of relying on strictly controlled laboratory tests which are mandatory for all new cars in Europe, the French manufacturer has elected to reveal independent data calculated with two non-governmental organisations, Transport & Environment and France Nature Environment. The measurements of 30 PSA models were made on public roads open to traffic (15.5 mile urban, 24.2 miles rural and 19.2 mile motorway) and under real-life driving conditions, notably with passenger and luggage loads, road gradients, and the use of air-conditioning systems. With consumer confidence in car testing falling the PSA Group decided to publish real-world fuel consumption data for its cars in order to be transparent with customers. It is a world first initiative in the automotive industry. Under the new test regime a Peugeot 108 1.2 PureTech petrol model which would have been rated at 65.5mpg under the standard test, returned 46.4mpg under the new PSA real-world test. Gilles Le Borgne, executive vice president for research and development at PSA, said: "The PSA Group has published real-world consumption data for 30 Peugeot, Citroen and DS models, in line with the commitment to transparency as part of its drive to continuously provide customers with more information, and the group will publish figures for another 20 models by the end of the year and introduce a simulator allowing customers to reduce their fuel consumption depending on driving conditions, thereby lowering their CO2 emissions. "In 2017, the PSA Group will move to the next level by extending measurements to pollutant emissions of nitrogen oxides in customer driving conditions."

And with vehicle manufacturers introducing more electric and plug-in hybrid models, the new car market is accelerating towards a point where Go Ultra Low feels plug-in power will overtake petrol and diesel as the dominant fuel type. Poppy Welch, head of Go Ultra Low, said: "The huge interest in electric vehicles and their subsequent rapid rise in uptake has been spectacular so far, with more than 60,000 EVs registered in the past five years. "These rises are just the start of the electric revolution as Go Ultra Low analysis suggests that electric vehicles could dominate the new car market as early as 2027." Go Ultra Low analysed a series of market forecasts and trends for plug-in vehicle uptake considering forecasts by government, the Committee on Climate Change, the RAC Foundation and other industry authorities

COMMERCIAL TRUCK TOPS FOR VW AMAROK

By: Ian Johnson

ENHANCING the versatility of its premium pick-up, the Amarok, Volkswagen Commercial Vehicles has launched two new Truckman hardtops. Available to order in a wide range of colours, the RS and Utility hardtops offer customers a practical yet stylish storage area, differing from the current 'luxury' GLS and Grand hardtops as they have been designed for more commercial use. Features of the RS hardtop include an integrated spoiler, non-drilling clamp fitting, solid sides for secure storage and cab height to create a sleek finish. With gull wing side access, a wash-clean interior and significant roof strength which allows additional storage, the utility hardtop also has a large capacity with plenty of space for racking and tools. The RS combines the workability of a commercial hardtop with the advanced styling of a leisure top. It has a practical wipe clean interior and solid sides for a secure, hidden load whilst the rear door glass is tinted and toughened. Trevor Hodgson-Phillips, head of service and parts for Volkswagen Commercial Vehicles, said: "The two new Truckman Amarok hardtops further enhance the range of off-the-shelf storage solutions we can offer as a brand. There is now even greater choice for business users and those Amarok owners that require a more commercial practical storage solution. "Working in partnership with Truckman, we've developed two new products that not only meet Volkswagen Commercial Vehicles' stringent manufacturing and technical standards, but also enable us to meet the business needs of our customers. With the variety of colours available, the new hardtops are guaranteed to make Volkswagen drivers stand out from the rest". The new hardtops can be ordered via Volkswagen Commercial Vehicles network of 73 Van Centres, and are made to order in the UK.

NISSAN HEADS INTO THE BLACK By: Mike Torpey

sporty body-coloured bumpers, side skirts and black bezel headlights along with a black spoiler while other upgrades include 16-inch alloy wheels and gloss inserts around the daytime running lights – all finished in black.

The interior of the Note Black Edition has also been given a makeover with a gloss black centre console, black gear shift knob and black headliner.

NISSAN has lifted the wraps on a new special edition model of its compact hatchback the Note.

Costing from £14,415, the new Nissan Note Black Edition is based on the mid-range Acenta trim grade and comes with a blend of style enhancements and comprehensive standard kit.

The addition of a Dynamic Styling Pack brings

Electric rear windows are included and the NissanConnect touch-screen infotainment system is also available as an option.

Two powerplants, the 1.5-litre dCi 90 manual and 1.2-litre 80 manual, are up for grabs along with a pair of body colours – a pearlescent Storm White or metallic Pearl Black.

EDUCATION CALL FOR YOUNGER DRIVERS

By : Mike Torpey

WITH teenage drivers three times more likely to die in a crash than older drivers, more should be done to protect younger, inexperienced motorists, says a leading UK road safety education organisation.

Improved driver education to enable young drivers and passengers to deal effectively with the key causes that compromise their safety should be on the Government's road safety agenda, according to the TTC Group.

TTC director Alan Prosser said: "Road crashes are the biggest killer of young people worldwide."

"We offer our young driver programme to schools and colleges as we recognise that more needs to be done to educate all our young drivers. The number of young people who die or are seriously injured on our roads is disproportionate and far too high."

Telford College of Arts and Technology students involved in the pilot and evaluation of the TTC programme gave a big thumbs up to the driver education and awareness sessions which taught them "life saving lessons" in how to avoid the dangers they face.

EVOQUE HITS FIVE-YEAR MILESTONE By : Mike Torpey

THE Range Rover Evoque reached a historic milestone this week as it celebrated five years of production at Jaguar Land Rover's Halewood plant near Liverpool.

With over half a million sold globally in more than 180 countries since 2011, the Evoque is not only Land Rover's greatest sales success story but also the brand's most efficient model.

Thanks to its British-built Ingenium engines the Evoque offers class-leading CO2 emissions of just 109g/km and fuel consumption of 68mpg.

Since the first Evoque rolled off the production line in early July 2011, sales have increased five-fold from just over 22,000 in 2011 to more than 108,000 in 2015 – with a new Evoque now rolling off the production line every 170 seconds.

At the same time, the workforce has also trebled to more than 4,000, with 1,500 recruited specifically to support the launch of the vehicle in 2011.

In fact over the past five years, employees have clocked up more than three million night-shift hours and 1.7 billion Evoque parts have been fitted in the trim and final assembly area, travelling over 2.5 million miles of conveyor system.

VANTASTIC £500 TOWARDS KIA ACCESSORIES

By : Mike Torpey

KIA Sorento fans who also hold Caravan Club membership can benefit from £500 towards the parts and fitting of accessories from their local Kia dealership this summer.

The offer is alongside other incentives like a £1,000 discount off a car when a customer takes a test drive.

To receive their discount, potential Sorento buyers need to hold caravan club membership, and show proof of the membership card which must be valid upon purchase.

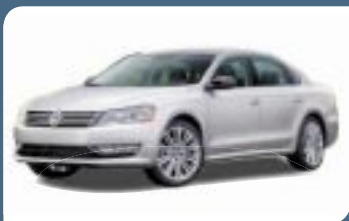

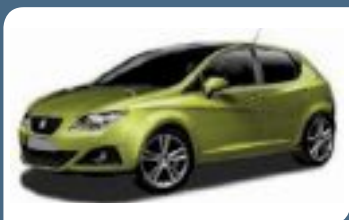

The offer applies to all Kia accessories, not just those related to towing, though manual Sorento versions can tow an unbraked trailer of up to 750kg.

All Sorento grades come with all-wheel drive, hill-start assist, trailer stability assist and reversing sensors while higher specs add leather seats, forward sensors, camera systems and exclusive to the KX-4, smart-park assist.

Clarke takes the gold in Poland

Top spot: Chris Clarke, chief instructor of Kicks Academy celebrates his gold, and right, with both his medals

BY BEN JEFFERIES

editor@onemk.co.uk

IT was double delight for Chris Clarke after leaving the Unified ITF European Open Taekwondo Championships in Poland with gold and silver medals.

Clarke, the chief instructor of Kicks Academy, picked up the gold medal in the Tuls' event in impressive style.

After progressing through a number of preliminary rounds to reach the tournament in the first place, he then went on to beat Simon Scales in an all English final to take the gold.

Clarke later went on to compete in the Veteran Sparring. He again breezed through the early rounds in impressive fashion to reach the final for the second time where he was to come up against the host nation's Konrad Osinski.

The final bout proved to be a hard fought contest with both men giving their all, but the verdict was awarded to Osinski with a 1-2 victory.

Clarke was representing England after being selected for the national team.

Both he and the rest of the squad will now have their eyes firmly set on the Unified ITF World Championships, which will take place in Argentina next year.

CRICKET

New Bradwell chase target as Aspley lose

THIRD placed New Bradwell chased down a total of 90 to beat Elstow by six wickets in the Four Counties First Division.

New Bradwell batted second after winning the toss with solid contributions from skipper Allen Bridgeman (28 off 17) and Kieran Lampard (24 off 16.)

There was also a good display with the ball from Harri Singh (4-17).

The victory puts them 36 points clear of Olney in fourth.

Aspley Guise were unable to build on last week's success after a defeat to Biddenham by seven wickets.

Aspley were put in to bat first after losing the toss and could only muster up a total of 157-9.

It was a defeat which leaves them at the foot of the table 35 points adrift of Elstow.

Elsewhere in the division there were draws for New City (Milton Keynes) in their match over Thurleigh.

Milton Keynes were one wicket away from victory against North Crawley, who were also just four runs away from success in a very tight game.

Olney Town also drew with Eaton Bray.

In the Cherwell Cricket League Great Brickhill beat Horspath by three wickets.

At the English School Championships in Gateshead, 12 MK athletes made the long journey north to represent Buckinghamshire Schools with pride of place going to Alfie Yabsley (Stantonbury) winning bronze. FORMULA ONE

Max powers to another podium

BY BEN JEFFERIES
editor@onemk.co.uk

RED Bull's Max Verstappen brought his team some success at the British Grand Prix at Silverstone after achieving a second place podium finish at the Northamptonshire track.

Verstappen crossed the line in third but was soon promoted to second following a reversal of the placings with Mercedes' Nico Rosberg.

The German was hit with a 10 second penalty due to receiving information over the team radio to aid him with the driving of the car following a problem with the gears, and that relegated him to third.

Verstappen however, was seen to be in scintillating form, with a pleasing display of driving in difficult conditions showing a level of maturity perhaps beyond his years, with his aggressive overtaking of Rosberg particularly impressive.

The Dutchman said: "The move on the outside of Becketts was fun, he [Rosberg] was finding the inside so I thought let's try the outside."

"It was a risky move for sure, the car had grip and I had the feeling so it worked well."

"The fans here were great, I couldn't believe how loud they were and they really supported me."

"Understandably they were behind Lewis [Hamilton] but they got behind me loads also which was great to see."

Daniel Ricciardo said he had a lonely race as he came home fourth.

"I think for the team and for the points it was really good," said the Aussie.

"Obviously we gained a bit on Ferrari which is nice, but for me it was lonely and a bit boring."

"We lost a lot of time with the Virtual Safety Car and that was just bad luck."

"This was out of our hands and there's nothing we could have done different."

Red Bull team principal Christian Horner said: "It was a fantastic race at our local track and a real fighting drive from Max, the highlight of which was passing Rosberg round the outside in Becketts."

"Unfortunately we didn't quite have enough pace in the dry conditions to stay ahead but it was very satisfying to get both cars to the finish."

Hamilton went on to win the race and recorded his fourth British Grand Prix victory.

He closed the gap in the drivers' championship to just one point behind Mercedes team-mate Rosberg.

The next Grand Prix takes place in Hungary on Sunday, July 24.

GREYHOUND RACING

Towcester ready for big TV Trophy

LORD Hesketh, whose bold vision it was to construct the impressive new greyhound racing facility at Towcester Racecourse, owns a live contender for victory in the most high profile race of the year at his own track – the historic TV Trophy.

As the title of the race suggests, the final on August 3 will be beamed to the nation courtesy of Sky Sports.

Generations of greyhound racing fans have grown up with the TV Trophy on their screens, making the competition arguably the most famous event in the racing calendar. Previous winners have become household names within the industry, like Scurlogue Champ who thrilled armchair viewers with his trademark whirlwind finish to earn back to back victories in the 1980s.

The 2015 winner, Ballymac Bonnie, will bid to add her moniker to the greyhound racing hall of fame with connections booked to make the long journey from Ireland to Towcester.

Track owner Hesketh's shot at glory comes in the form of the mighty Ribble Atom who finished a gallant third in the event 12 months ago behind Bonnie.

LONG JUMP

Rutherford is European champ

WOBURN Sands Olympic, Commonwealth and World champion Greg Rutherford has made the perfect preparation for Rio 2016 by retaining his long jump title at the European Championship last Thursday.

A leap of 8.25m was enough for Rutherford, pictured, to secure the gold in Amsterdam.

The long jumper opened with an effort of 8.12m which immediately catapulted him into the lead.

Two no jumps followed, but the Milton Keynes athlete overhauled Michel Torneus of Sweden with his fourth and winning effort of 8.25m.

The success means Rutherford becomes the first European long jump champion to retain the crown in 54 years.

On the same night, fellow Briton Dina Asher-Smith secured gold in the 200m.

She ran a season's best time of 22.37 seconds to see off her competitors.

Rutherford posted on his Instagram page how pleased he was to win the title, but he also praised his competitors Michel Tornius from Sweden and Dutch jumper Ignisious Gaisah.

Rutherford posted: "So pleased to have won my second European title."

"Equally pleased I had the chance to share the podium with two great competitors and people."

"We've known each other a long time and this is a lovely way to top a friendship off."

Rutherford's victory was all the more impressive considering that he was suffering from a whiplash injury he suffered at the Birmingham Diamond League, which meant he had to pull out of the British Championships a few weeks ago. The injury left him with a loss of hearing in his left ear.

McFadzean joins Burton Albion

BY SCOTT KIRK
scott.kirk@onemk.co.uk

KYLE McFadzean has joined Sky Bet Championship side Burton Albion for an undisclosed fee.

The 29-year-old, pictured has signed a three-year deal with the Brewers, who will compete in the second tier of English football for the first time in their history in 2016/17.

OneMK understands that the deal is less than the £500,000 price tag that was put on his shoulders last week, but one of the main sticking points of the Sheffield United interest was that Dons didn't want him joining an outfit that was in the same division as them.

With Burton a league up in the Championship, and not far from McFadzean's home town of Sheffield, the deal appears to have suited all parties, and it means that Dons don't have an unhappy player on their books.

There are add-ons as part of the deal, but even if they all pan out, the sum will not add up to £500,000.

McFadzean made 93 appearances and scored four goals during a two-year stay at stadiummk, after arriving from Crawley Town in the summer of 2014.

McFadzean hadn't been in touch with manager Karl Robinson since the club reconvened for pre-season training, and did not go on the club's pre-season training camp in Ireland.

Robinson told mkdons.com: "I'm deeply disappointed to lose Kyle."

"We had meetings with him in the summer – he knows what our ambitions are for next season and going forward but he's decided his future lies elsewhere."

"It's been a testing time but we've been strong and stuck to our principles – showing respect to our players and our fans."

"This deal is in the best interest of the football club."

Meanwhile, Dons got their pre-season underway by thrashing St James's Gate 9-1 in Ireland.

There were eight different goalscorers in the game on Monday night, which included a brace from Ben Reeves.

Other scorers included new signing from Barnsley George Williams, Giorgio Rasulo, Joe Walsh, Brandon Thomas-Asante, Nicky Maynard, Tom Hitchcock and Samir Carruthers.

Dons played Drogheda United last night and have their last game in Ireland tonight against an as yet unnamed team before they travel back to England for their double-header with Cambridge City and St Ives on Saturday.
